Transfer of Copyright Agreement

(Article Title, Hereinafter, "the Work")

(Name(s) of Author(s))

An assignment of copyright empowers the Publisher to protect the Work from unauthorized use, and to disseminate the Work to the widest possible extent by dealing expeditiously with reprint or republication requests from third parties. To avoid delay in publication, the corresponding author is requested to return this form promptly by fax or first class mail.

In consideration of the costs incurred in reviewing, editing and publishing the Work, I (the Corresponding author) hereby irrevocably transfer the copyright in the Work, to the extent transferable, to Heron Publishing (the Publisher). In so doing, I understand that I retain the following rights:

- to present the Work orally;
- to reuse the Work or any portions thereof, royalty-free and without permission, in any future work of my own;
- to make copies of the Work or any portion thereof, royalty-free and without permission, for my personal use or for distribution within the institution that employs me;
- proprietary rights, such as patents.

I agree that copies of the Work, made in accordance with the above terms, will cite the source article and mention Heron Publishing as the copyright owner.

By signing this agreement, I certify that:

- the Work is original and has not been published or submitted for publication elsewhere;
- I have obtained written permission for the use of text or tables or illustrations from any copyrighted source(s), and I will supply such permission(s) to Heron Publishing if requested;
- I will inform my co-authors, if any, of the above terms, which are applicable to all authors;
- the Work does not infringe the copyright or moral rights of anyone, and that the copyright in the Work has not been assigned to anyone else;
- all authors of the Work have been credited, and all authors named as co-authors are aware that they have been so named.
